Hello fellow techie women! Here is the newsletter for the week of April 6th.

~~~~~~~~ WESiT and CEWiT News and Events ~~~~~~~~~

Secretary Position still available on the WESiT Board
We are still looking for a student to fill the Secretary position within WESiT. If you are interested, please send to wesit@indiana.edu ASAP a recent picture/headshot, a description of your previous involvement in WESiT and a paragraph or two explaining your interest and qualifications. Elections for executive positions (Secretary, Treasurer, Undergrad, Master's, and PhD Co-Chairs) will be held online through Survey Monkey. Once these positions are filled, the director positions will be chosen by the old and new executive board. Please look out for a link to vote for your fellow WESiT members!

Getting The Word Out: How To Promote Events With Social Media
The new CEWiT Social Media Special Interest Group (SIG) is offering a free workshop, "Getting The Word Out: How To Promote Events With Social Media" on Wednesday. In this workshop, you will learn how to create a basic social media strategy to follow before, during, and after an event; use common social channels to increase awareness and interest in your event; and understand how to keep your audience engaged afterwards. No prior knowledge of Social Media is required and attendees are encouraged to bring their laptops or tablets, and to RSVP.

- Date: Wednesday, April 8th
- Time: 6:00 - 8:30pm
- Where: Scholar's Commons, Room E159, in the East Tower of the Wells Library
- RSVP: [HERE]

Two more workshops will be offered next week. Check out THIS flyer for more information.

WESiT High-Tech Firm Stock Valuation and Decision Making Workshop
What do you need to know as a successful, female, high level executive in a high tech firm? Why does every CEO spend 80% of their time with investors at work? This workshop will show you how to evaluate your company stock price and how to make smart decisions as a leader in high tech firms. (No prior business knowledge is required.)

- Date: Thursday, April 9th
- Time: 6:00 - 7:00pm
- Where: SPEA 275
- RSVP: [HERE]

PhD students: You're invited to the Faculty & PhD Salon THIS Friday!
CEWiT's Faculty Alliance is hosting the final Faculty & PhD Salons this Friday. The Salon is an informal networking activity for faculty and doctoral students from multiple schools and disciplines. In addition to refreshments and networking time, there will be three lightning talks from faculty. The first Salon of the semester is next week, and the theme is "Technology, Communication, and the Classroom." To see who is presenting, visit THIS PAGE.

- Date: Friday, April 10th
- Time: 5:00 - 5:30pm
- Where: Scholar's Commons, Room E159, in the East Tower of the Wells Library

Achievements of Women in STIM Poster Competition
Attend the first annual Achievements of Women in STIM (Science, Technology, Informatics, and Mathematics) Poster Competition, which is taking place on Friday, April 17 from 2-5pm. Listen to participants present their research for prizes, and network with fellow women researchers. This is an interdisciplinary competition and all women, graduate and undergraduate, will be presenting research that connects or utilizes technology, science, informatics, or math. Visit the website for more information.
RSVP TODAY - ASIS&T UNIX Workshops
The IU Association of Information Science & Technology Student Chapter (ASIS&T) is sponsoring a free, beginner UNIX workshop taught by ILS UNIX System Support Specialist, Steve Cox. The workshop will be in 2 parts. Saturday April 11 and 18 from 12:30 to around 5:30 or 6 (depending on length of breaks). Attending ASIS&T’s free beginners workshop in April will be a fun and easy way to gain the basic knowledge you’ll need for the Intermediate UNIX workshop during Summer I (Z603). If you are currently deciding on summer classes, taking our free workshop will help you decide if you want to take the Intermediate UNIX summer workshop for credit. Please feel free to look at the introductory slides on the course website – this is the beginning material that Steve will be going over with us in person on April 11 and 18. More UNIX tutorials are available HERE.

Space is limited in the Mac lab (Wells Library 002) and we will need time to add non-ILS students to the server, so please RSVP HERE by today, Monday, April 6th. Please e-mail asistiub@gmail.com with questions.

RSO Fashion Show
The Retail Studies Association will be hosting a fashion show on Thursday, April 9th, at 7:30 PM in Alumni Hall of the Indiana Memorial Union. The fashion show will feature wearable technology provided by UITS and Apparel Merchandising. See THIS FLYER for more information.

Grainger Job Shadow Opportunity
Grainger will be holding a job shadow opportunity on Monday, May 11 (the Monday after finals end). Students who participate will spend the day shadowing Enterprise Systems (IT) team members at Grainger’s Lake Forest, IL office (a northern suburb of Chicago). They will learn about Grainger, gain a deeper understanding of the IT jobs they shadow, and also get to meet some executive leaders. It’s a great pipeline to Grainger’s intern program, and Grainger hopes to recruit some of these job shadow participants as interns for the following summer. Please check Kelley’s USCO site for the posting, which is called “Job Shadow Day (Enterprise Systems) – May 11”, and the ID for the posting is 8663. Students must apply for the job shadow through the UCSO. Grainger is targeting freshmen and sophomores.

Careers with Epic
Epic has openings in both technical and non-technical roles. Join other Indiana University grads and make an impact on 54% of the patient population in the United States. Epic’s work is challenging and rewarding and its “do good” mission is truly at the heart of what it does - help its customers improve the healthcare industry. Epic are hiring bright, motivated students upon graduation, and we encourage you to upload your resume at careers.epic.com.

Here is a snapshot of Epic's open position for technical roles:

- Software Developer: Full cycle development with meaningful work from day one.
- Business Intelligence development: Help our customers with “Big Data” in hospitals and clinics.
- Integration Engineers: Help Epic and other software talk to each other for a customer.
- Technical Problem Solver: Jack of all trades, writing code, troubleshooting, project planning, customer support for 3 or 4 clients.

Here is a snapshot of Epic's open position for non-technical roles:

- Quality Assurance: Test our software from a medical professional's perspective to make sure it's efficient, intuitive and mistake free. First we use it right, and then we use it wrong.
- Project Managers: Help our customers set up the software, partnering with the customer, problem solving, etc. to ensure the success of the install.
- Technical Writer: Serve as a translator between our developers and end users by creating documentation to accompany our world class software.

CDW Sales Summer Internship
CDW’s first formal summer sales internship is scheduled to launch June 1 – August 7, 2015. The program was thoughtfully designed to expose the interns to CDW’s capabilities and immerse them in the core phases of the sales cycle. They will also learn the secret sauce to CDW’s continued industry leading financial performance. And of course—have some fun. What great internship isn’t fun? They are currently accepting applications for students that graduate in December 2015 or May 2016 and are interested in pursuing sales careers. See their website for more information.
